TEMPE NEWS NOTESSPARKS PREDICTS BIG SHIPMENTS FROM HERE

That the south side is not falling behind the records of the other valley communities in shipping home produce to outside markets was well demonstrated Saturday night with the departure of a special freight on the Arizona Eastern, having as its load, eight cars of sheep, four cars of cattle, one car of cabbage and three cars of milk. At Maricopa the shipment was split, some of it going to the coast for distribution and the rest to various points in New Mexico and Texas.

Traveling Freight Agent Sparks, of the Arizona Eastern, who was in Tempe Saturday making up the train, is highly optimistic over the prospects for the south side and predicts without the slightest hesitation that Tempe, Mesa, Chandler and Gilbert, will be dispatching a freight at least once a week regularly within a very short while. He figures that that train will for the most part be made up of vegetables and other goods that are perishable. The cattle and other live stock will often require special shipments will only have their half dozen or so markets, but there are thousands of smaller markets that will care for the variety of farm produce that is now grown and that is often a loss to the grower for the reason he don't know where to sell it. Mr. Sparks sees an early future for the farmers living on this side of the river. He has watched the farming carefully and freely predicts that more farm produce and live stock will be shipped with the next eight months or a year than ever before in the history of the valley.

SCHOOL CENSUS

The school census for the fiscal year has recently been completed by Jas. A. Blakely who has made a thorough canvass of all the territory in District No. 3. He has compiled some interesting figures on the situation and to give one just a glance at the attendance rolls of the schools the various counts are given here. Seven hundred and thirty-four children are enrolled, 367 girls and 367 boys. Four hundred and fifty-six of this number are between the ages of eight and sixteen. Six hundred and twenty of the total are attending the public schools, six are in private schools and 108 are not attending school. Five hundred and fifty-nine are native born and have native parents. 119 are native born with one parent foreign; 150 are native born with both parents foreign; six are foreign born. The
